Dear Len,

The KOOLGLIDE system has not only revolutionized the carpet industry but we are beginning to use this technology on the hard surface side of our business. Because of the advancement of this technology and the development of the KOOLGLIDE utility tape, on installation of hardwood, the installer will no longer have to face nail or direct glue his starting row. This system allows the starting row to be utilized almost immediately instead of costly down time waiting for adhesives to bond. The utility tape can also be used for board replacement on hardwood.

On laminate installations, this technology has allowed us to no longer disassemble the flooring to replace boards that are damaged during or after installation. This is a big cost saving in no longer having to move furniture to disassemble a floor for repair. This system allows us to remove only the damaged board or boards for replacement.

We are also beginning to use this tool for photo shoots for campaign add magazines with ceramic and porcelain tile. This system allows us to permanently or temporarily install and remove tile for placement in photo shoots.

We feel this new technology is revolutionizing a new trend in hard surface, laminate, ceramic and porcelain tile installations. We appreciate your continued support in supplying materials to our industry for development and testing.

Sincerely,

James Mullins
